Vibrant life of Youth

Right: Located in the northeastern section of Indianapolis, Broad Ripple has opened the doors of knowledge to students of Washington Township for the past 79 years.

exudes from within Ripple walls

Youth is a fleeting moment of joy in the morning of our life, a moment quickly felt, stubbornly endured, and totally cherished.

This is the time when we try to catch life; for youth, catching life is not difficult. This moment offers us unlimited opportunities to learn about life. We find new fields of interest through our daily studies. Everywhere we go, we sense the importance of friendship. After school, we experience the satisfaction of fulfilling our responsibilities, whether through our work on the football field, in the yearbook office, or at the corner store.

To capture every facet of this exciting life, we are constantly on the move. Sometimes we become so busy that we lose sight of what we really want and need in life. So we stop for a moment and look out a window, or listen to the choir practicing, or just run our hand along the smooth wood of a baseball bat. And in our mind, a dream takes shape, a dream with a plan for our future years.

Despite our moments of dreaming, youth is a time of realistic living. We find that to reach our goals, we must first overcome many difficulties. We experience the dilemma of adjusting to society while still remaining an individual. But we take comfort in the knowledge that there is always someone to help and encourage us—a parent, a teacher, a friend.

But so quickly, another year, with its own problems and joys, comes to an end. Before we realize it, the gates to the football field are locked, the last chapter in the textbook is completed, and the final edition of the newspaper is distributed.

Many of us will be back again next year to ponder our questions, endure our problems, and cultivate new friendships. Others of us will leave Broad Ripple to undertake greater responsibilities, experience new challenges, and increase our understanding of the world in which we live.

But we will never forget this year at Ripple, this fleeting acquaintance with sunshine and rain, dewdrops and frost—this moment of Youth.

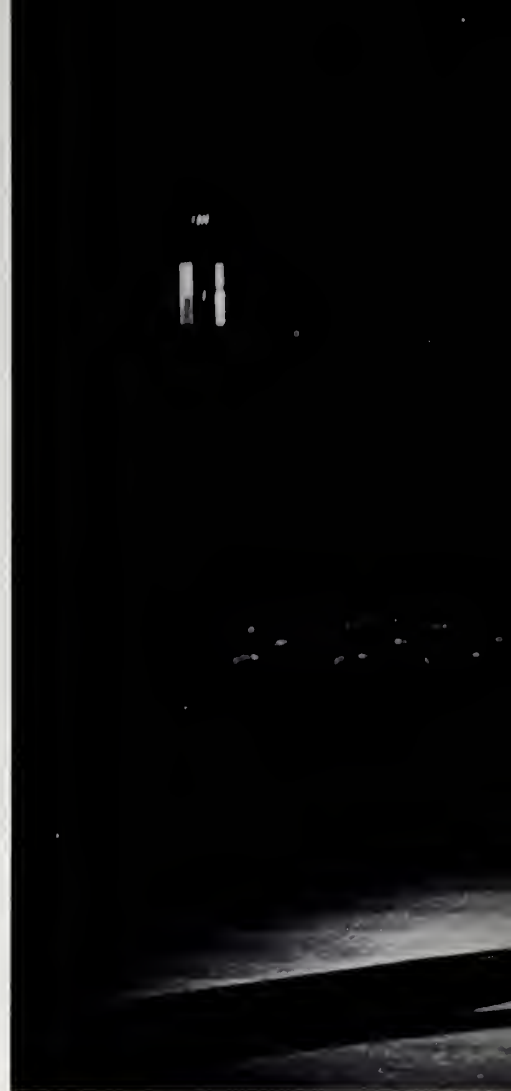

Right: With thoughts ranging from last night's game to next weekend's date, Steve Manning looks up from his work for a moment of day-dreaming.

Right: Alone in the silence of the empty auditorium, a dreaming Ripplite hears the exuberant applause of his imagined audience.

Left: Isolated from the excitement and confusion of the game, shortstop Randy Mitchell thinks only of the hit that his team needs.

"Dreams are nice. They're an escape from a boring class or from a disappointing taste of reality. More than that they help you to get some insight on where you're going in this hectic world."

Youth's dreams reveal

plans for future days

Above: Hoping for another Rocket victory, Ripple cheerleaders, Diane Williams, Cynthia VanTassel, and Linda Marsh, hang posters to arouse school spirit.

Right: Treading the well-worn path of Ripple seniors, Larry Goldstein wades through another college catalogue. Approximately eighty per cent of Ripple's grads attend college.

Determined to succeed,

Left: Exhausted yet still determined to succeed, Chris Smith edges across the finish line to defeat his classmate Bill Simon.

“Sometimes you’re outmatched for your ability or strength, and only your personal pride and stubborn determination can keep you going. That’s when winning really counts.”

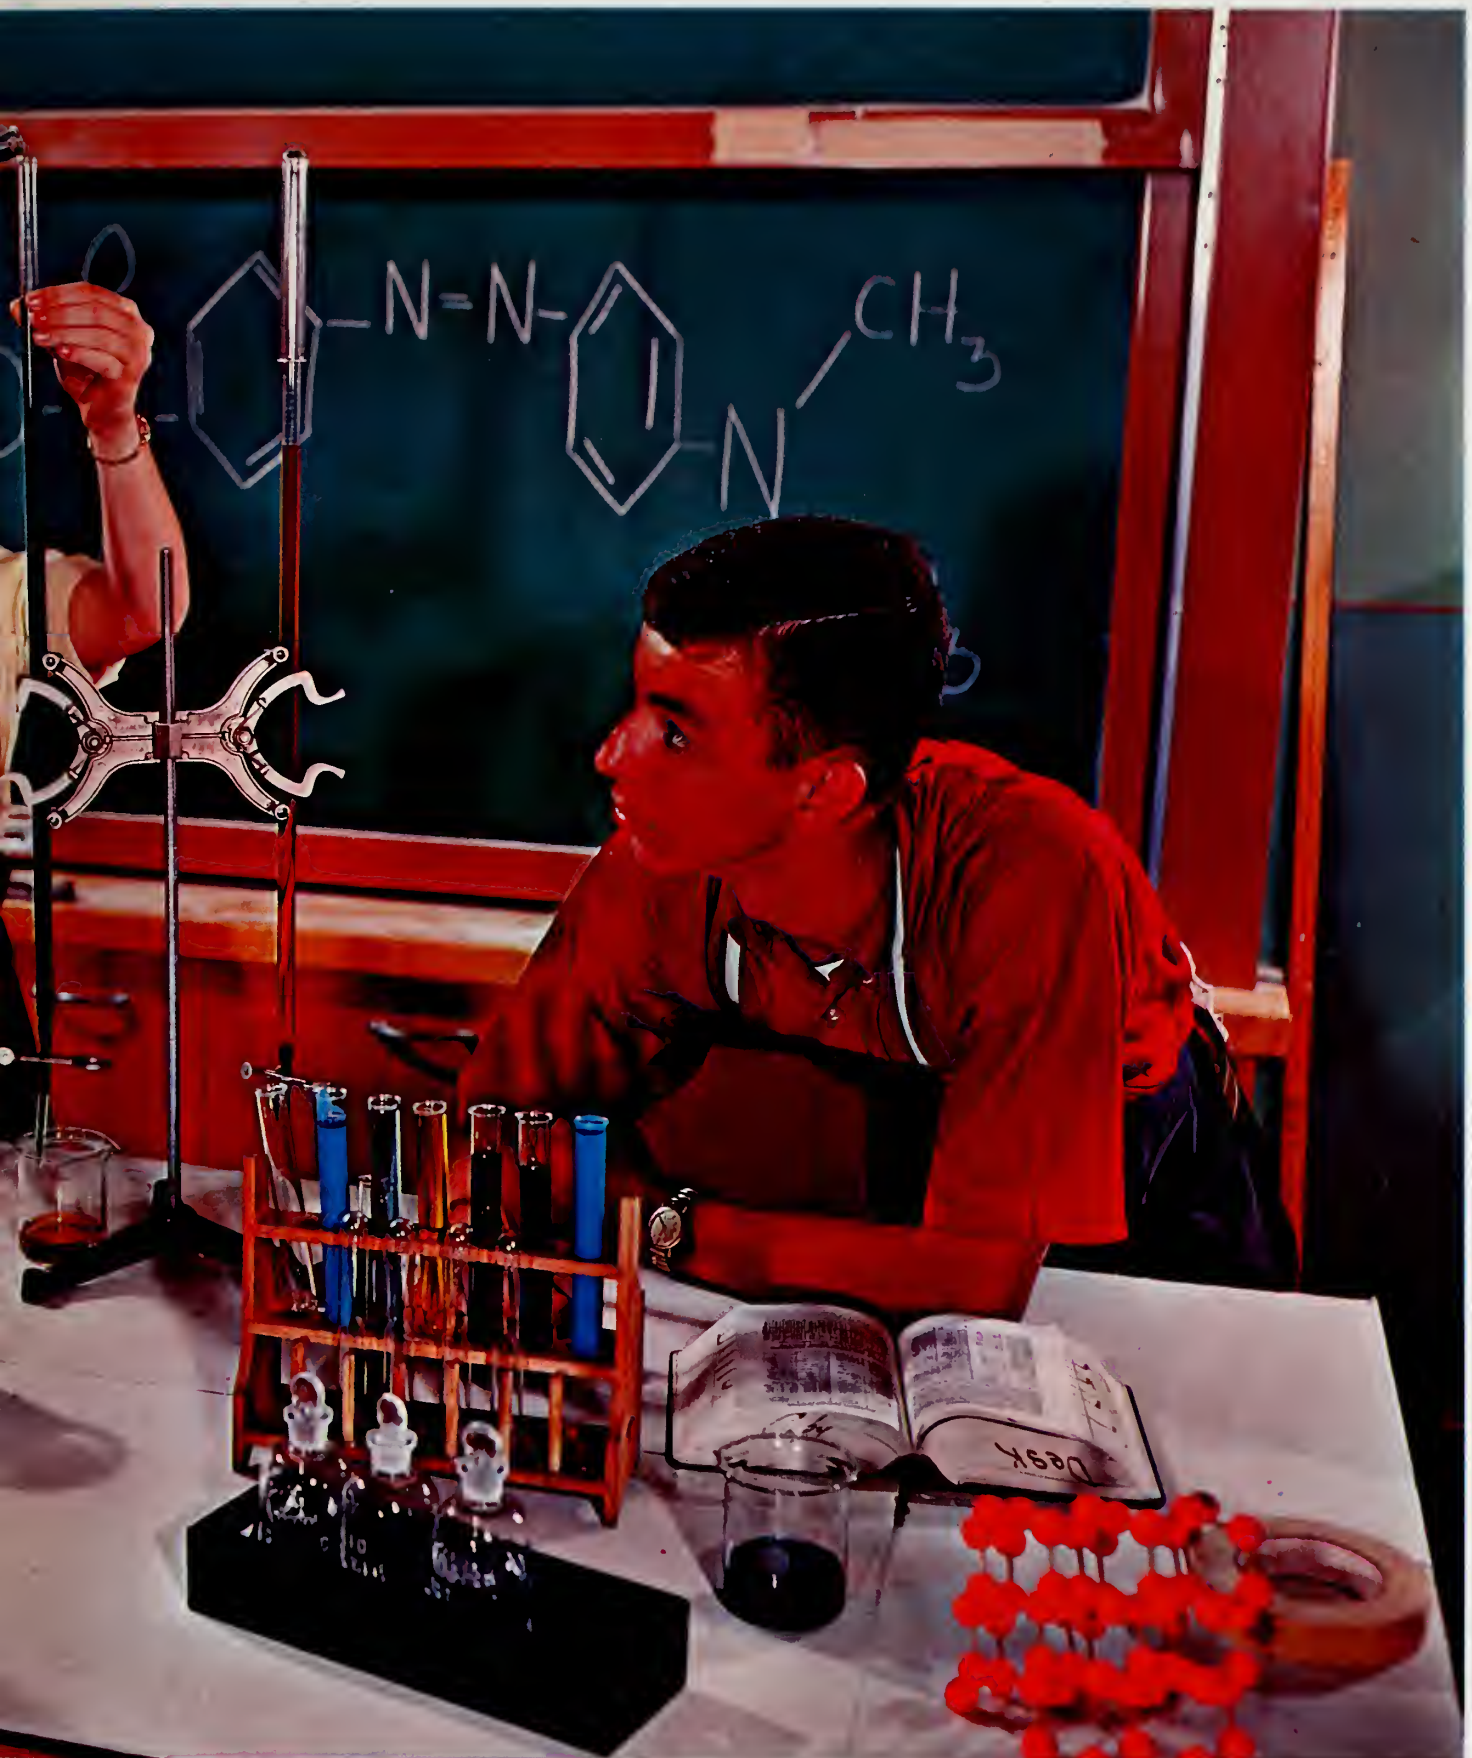

Right: Challenged by the theories of modern science, Dan Satinsky and Jane Everly search for the formula of their unknown compound.

Below: Surpassing the normal duties of teaching, Mrs. Rosalee Hofmann encourages determination in a dejected Ripplite.

“Don’t let anyone tell you that it’s easier for kids today. We may have more luxuries but that doesn’t really make being young easier. We set our goals terribly high and we are determined to achieve them. And when all our attempts seem worthless, it’s nice to have someone there to encourage us.”

Youth displays unyielding stamina

"You can't get too much out of your high school years if you don't sometime along the line acknowledge your responsibilities. You can sit in class and memorize facts, but your outlook and goals will be unrealistic if you just vegetate."

Above: Pausing for just a moment, Paula Dintaman finds nature to be a silent but pleasant companion.

“Knowing lots of people and having friends is great but sometimes you need to be alone with your thoughts. I like to be near trees.”

Right: Hearty laughter and close friendship enhance the taste of ice cream for seniors Mary Lou Burgett and Bob Pegg.

Youth finds friendship everywhere

Right: Striving for perfection in her work, Fran Wingfield rechecks her English III theme before submitting the final draft.

“Achievement renews your self-respect and personal pride. In those first few rewarding moments when you just sit back and look over your work, you realize that this is one of those satisfying times that makes life worth living.”

Gracefully enhancing the annual Homecoming festivities, 22 Queen candidates are formally presented to the student body at the afternoon pageant.

AFS'ers gain new understanding,

Above: Golfers Dave Houk and Johan Brun compare American and Swedish golfing techniques as they practice their "carpet chipping."

A road paved with "a hundred-thousand different applications and papers" led Johan Brun, American Field Service exchange student, from his home in Eskilstuna, Sweden, to Broad Ripple. Having studied English for eight years, Johan, known as "John Brown" to his friends, had little trouble adjusting to Ripple and the family of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Houk. Johan was impressed by the friendliness of Americans and the great conformity of teenagers, especially in their clothing. Of all his activities at Ripple, Johan most enjoyed belonging to the golf team.

Two families resulted in two widely differing views of French life when Susan Engert spent the summer in France as an AFS exchange student. She lived in the villages of Vivonne, Bourge en Bresse, and Chamonix.

Berlin's 'Annie Get Your Gun'

Amid the colorful gaiety of the new West emerged the professional rivalry between a backward, gun-shootin' hillbilly girl, Annie Oakley, and the leading marksman and cassanova of the day, Frank Butler. Mary Sue Johnson proved to be the gal who "kin shoot the fuzz off'n a peach" and who put Steve Manning, as Frank, to shame in a shooting match. In a huff Frank left the Wild West Show for the Far East Show. But later, Annie realized she couldn't "get a man with a gun" and deliberately missed her targets. Finally, to save the bankrupt shows, Annie sold all her medals and the shows merged. Annie and Frank happily followed suit.

Mr. Gene Poston directed the Golden Singer production, "Annie Get Your Gun," with assistance from Mrs. Rosalee Hofmann and Mrs. Janet Blocker.

With over 80 per cent of its graduates entering college, Broad Ripple concentrated its academic efforts in college preparatory courses. To upgrade the achievement level of all pupils, regular ninth hour study halls and classes were replaced with special laboratory-study periods. Pupils utilized this opportunity to increase their knowledge of subjects in which they had a special interest or needed additional preparation.

Language

Making more extensive use of audio-visual equipment, the English and the Foreign Language Departments sought to give students a thorough knowledge of their own language and a greater fluency in a foreign tongue.

To aid pupils in gaining reading speed and accuracy, a "Tachomatic 500" machine which showed film strips at different speeds was added to the reading laboratory equipment. To give more specialized instruction to the experimental English Vg classes, teachers worked as a team, exchanging classes for a month.

Advanced foreign language pupils read classical novels and short stories in learning to appreciate the culture of the country. Fourth year French students presented the French version of Charles Dickens' "A Christmas Carol" for other classes. In addition, participants of the I. U. Honors Program conducted bi-weekly study labs after school.

Modern math stresses understanding

Below: Experimenting to resolve horizontal force components, Steve Murphy and Ken Johnston delve into the physics of general science.

"Just old math with a new dress," explained department head Miss Pauline Rathert in her evaluation of the modern math program. With the transition to modern math, Broad Ripple obtained new text books on all levels of study. Completing the modernization, the department installed overhead projectors and accompanying screens in its classrooms.

To investigate rather than to verify was the new objective of the Science Department's laboratory program. Among several additions of new equipment, a newly completed library of "single concept films" helped explain laboratory procedures in the physical sciences. An addition to the greenhouse, completed in the spring, enabled biology students to work with more live materials.

Special projects, speakers relate

Special projects supplemented the basic course of study in the Social Studies Department. Through class debates, world history classes considered basic political issues such as United States involvement in Vietnam. Having studied current world affairs, pupils in accelerated United States history classes wrote source themes in which they attempted to find practical solutions to international problems.

Relating basic constitutional concepts to everyday events, government students gave special reports on current news articles and political novels. Pupils gathered information not only from their recently revised textbooks but also from related lectures presented by guest speakers.

In order to promote a better understanding of the role of the Federal Bureau of Investigation, F.B.I. Agent Mr. Fern Stukenbroeker spoke to the entire student body concerning bureau duties. Similarly, the Quaker Oats Company sponsored "Mr. Quaker" who lectured in colonial attire on the necessity of preserving American heritage and ideals.

skills toward community service

Participation in community projects was a focal point of the year for the Art and Music Departments. In addition to 10 formal programs, Ripple's vocal groups caroled at Methodist Hospital and Glendale Shopping Center, Beginning chorus classes learned the fundamentals of music theory by building musical scales on a simulated keyboard and worked to develop sight-reading skills with a special text pointing out note patterns. Seeking to appreciate the historical as well as the technical aspects of music, Madrigals made a class research project on early madrigal singers.

Aiding in a community effort to encourage people to mail Christmas packages early, art classes made posters to be placed in post offices and stores. Classes also supplemented the traffic safety program by designing safety posters for a contest sponsored by the American Automobile Association.

The study of practical arts, including business education, industrial arts, and home economics, provided the link between the necessity of earning a living and the theoretical aspects of obtaining an education.

Business education students utilized the "Skill-Builder," a timing mechanism designed to improve typing speed and accuracy. Furthering their knowledge, pupils observed data processing and systems analysis at Arsenal Technical High School.

Architectural drawing students increased their drafting skills by employing new texts. Similarly, pupils enrolled in home economics classes benefited from the practical knowledge presented in lectures by a juvenile court judge, a rabbi, a lawyer, a marriage counselor, and an Alcoholics Anonymous representative.

Pupils use perception,

reflex tests to perfect varied skills

Health, driver and physical education, and ROTC classes attempted to stimulate student interest by the inception of projects extending beyond usual activities.

Adding value to classroom sessions, Driver Education pupils utilized mechanisms which tested field of vision, depth perception, and glare recovery essential to safe driving.

Guest speakers from the State Board of Health and the Alcoholics and Narcotics Bureau endeavored to instruct Health students as to the proper care of their bodies. Likewise, "phys. ed." pupils aimed for physical fitness through well-rounded exercise.

In conjunction with parades and rifle and drill team contests, Reserve Officer Training Corps cadets competed in a map and compass contest and inspected army weapons at Fort Harrison.

To fit the needs of each individual student, Broad Ripple offered over 30 organizations and activities to supplement regular classroom work. In after-school activities, students pursued individual interests, developed leadership, and served the school and community. As an experimental co-curricular activity, professors from Indiana University lectured to students and faculty on new trends in learning and teaching.

"Learning, Laughter, Loyalty, and Luck," the 1965 Orange Aid Tea, welcomed freshmen girls and their mothers to Broad Ripple. As the all girls' service organization, Orange Aid also sponsored the Used Book Store.

Key Club captured first place for its Homecoming float, "Torture the Redskins." The boys' service club also removed debris from Marott Park and solicited donations for the Leukemia and Cystic Fibrosis drives.

"Where the Boys Are," Student Council's male style show, financed the group's charity projects. Besides co-ordinating Homecoming activities, the Council sponsored exchange students in conjunction with the American Field Service.

interests join hobby, career groups

In addition to bringing together students with common interests, membership in several Ripple organizations provided students with insight into future careers and enriched members' hobbies.

Stamp and Coin Club's program included auction sales, speeches by experts in the field of numismatics, and the exchange of stamps and coins between members.

A puppet show presented at a local orphanage climaxed Art Club's Christmas season activities. The members created puppets and props used for the show.

Promoting an interest in books, Library Club purchased copies of Moby Dick in braille for the Blind School. The organization also sent books to Larue Carter Hospital and donated funds to start a Juvenile Center Library.

In hopes of marching with next year's band, members of Baton Club practiced the intricate style of baton twirling under the majorettes' direction.

Members of Foreigners extended their knowledge of foreign customs as they heard speeches by the foreign exchange students.

Members of the Junior Historical Society devoted much of their time to the improvement of the club's campaign button collection and to the securing of old photographs of the Ripple area. In the fall, the Society sponsored a weekend excursion to St. Louis.

Scholarship, leadership, character, and service qualified pupils for election into the National Honor Society. The organization invited prominent citizens, including Mr. Richard Lugar, School Board member, to speak at its meetings. To raise funds, members sold ice cream at all home basketball games and after school.

Honorary clubs award membership

Membership in seven of Ripple's clubs is an honor granted only to those students who are talented in certain fields of fine art.

Members of Creative Writing Club gained admittance to the organization by submitting an original piece of writing which was approved by the club members and their sponsor. At their monthly meetings, members worked to develop their creativity and improve their writing style through the writing and evaluation of impromptu compositions.

opportunity to investigate careers

Preparing students for the future and giving service to others were the goals which guided the activities of eight Ripple clubs.

By touring local hospitals and hearing speeches by representatives of the medical profession, Future Nurses Club members investigated their chosen career.

Broad Ripple's newly reactivated chapter of Future Business Leaders of America worked to further Riplites' knowledge of business fundamentals. The organization also presented awards to outstanding business education students.

In the fall, Safety Council received the only plaque awarded in Indiana by the National Commission on Safety Education for "meritorious activities to improve school and community traffic safety." Mary Sue Johnson, Council president, was elected to the Student Board of Directors of the National Student Safety Association. The Council honored Fire Chief Arnold Phillips for outstanding service to the city.

Striving to help others, members of Tri-Hi-Y and Hi-Y fed and clothed needy families at Thanksgiving and Christmas. Both groups participated in the Junior Legislature and Model United Nations held at the State House.

The annual drive to raise money for the National Red Cross kicked off the High School Red Cross' year of service. In addition, members sent gifts to the soldiers in South Vietnam.

Lettermen's Club members, all varsity letter winners, sponsored a winning car in the Broad Ripple Grand Prix go-kart race.

To finance their Homecoming float, spring track meet, and new sports equipment, the Girls Athletic Association sponsored a booth at the school Carnival.

Booster Club continued to support Ripple's basketball team for its sixteenth consecutive year. Members attended all home and nearby basketball games.

By posting colorful signs and presenting speeches to the student body, the cheerleaders continued to arouse school spirit.

"Listen to the other parts and blend with them!" were familiar words to the 16 members of Madrigals, Ripple's top singing ensemble. The group performed for church, scout, and community service groups. The also joined with other Madrigal groups in the annual "Madrigal Sing."

In addition to six weeks of preparation for the musical, "Annie Get Your Gun," the Golden Singers presented numerous school and outside programs. The 51-member group caroled at Methodist Hospital during the Christmas season and sang for the Baccalaureate service at graduation in June.

Riparian Newspaper receives three

This was a year of "firsts" for the Riparian Newspaper. The 1964-65 paper received the three top journalism awards in the nation. National Scholastic Press Association, Columbia Press Association, and Quill and Scroll granted the paper All-American, Medalist, and International Honor ratings. The Riparian was also the recipient of two service awards—the first service award given by the Indiana High School Press Association and Quill and Scroll's George Gallup Award.

In November, 28 staffers and their advisers attended the NSPA convention in Chicago. There, they were given short courses in publications by advisers from throughout the country.

Hoping to create an eighteenth consecutive award-winning Riparian Yearbook, 42 staffers spent hours solving the new problems which arose with the addition of 16 pages to the book and a change in the basic format.

To gain the necessary technical knowledge, 13 yearbook staffers attended summer journalism institutes at universities throughout the country. There Riparianites learned both the fundamentals and the finer points of drawing layouts, writing copy, and cropping pictures. Seven of those attending institutes received awards for their outstanding work.

The 1965 Riparian Yearbook received top awards from the National Scholastic Press Association, the Columbia Scholastic Press Association, and the National School Yearbook Association.

Riparian finances, photos, publicity

Transmitting significant news about Ripple to all Indianapolis citizens, the ten members of the News Bureau sent news articles and feature stories to seven local newspapers, including the new teen paper, the Youth World News.

Most of the photography for both the Riparian Newspaper and Yearbook was the responsibility of the sixteen student photographers. Ron Hostetler received top honors at the IU Journalism Institute and Jim Heubi placed first at Marion County Press Day.

One of the primary means of communication between the various staffs was the Little Rip, a news sheet informing staff members of assignments, deadlines, and upcoming events.

Spirited enthusiasm highlighted this year's expanded intramural program which included wrestling and softball for the first time. Over 250 boys competed for five intramural team championships while 250 girls participated in 11 team and individual sports. On the interscholastic level, Ripple athletes utilized new isometric equipment to condition themselves for competition in eight varsity and reserve sports.

“Nothing can compare to the thrill of the competition in sports. You're out there to win and when you do, you feel strong and independent. But most rewarding is working with others as a team.”

Football team battles to 6-4 slate

by Jim Peters

Ranked as one of the top city powers in pre-season polls, a crippled Rocket squad amassed a 6-4 slate after suffering numerous injuries. Directed by Mr. Bob Brown, the varsity football team toppled both highly ranked Cathedral and Washington.

Although Ripple lacked precision in its season opener, the gridsters rambled over Northwest, 33-0. During the first minutes of the game, linebacker Dave Jensen suffered a knee injury which disabled him for the remainder of the season.

Picking up a Scecina fumble on Ripple's 39 yard line, Bill Simon outspinted the Crusader defense to give the Rockets the only touchdown and a 7-0 victory.

On September 24, Ripple defeated northside rival North Central, 13-3. The Panthers boasted a three point halftime lead, but Ken Castor scored on a five yard run as the fourth quarter commenced. Ron Short hit end Dave Hobson with a 17 yard pass for the final score.

Ripple and Howe battled through three and a half scoreless quarters before Howe scored to upset the Rockets, 6-0.

The following week, Ripple toppled a strong Washington team from the city rankings, 25-7.

At Homecoming, Manual, Co-City Champion, came from behind to edge the Rockets, 34-26. Manual scored twice in the last three minutes to defeat Ripple.

On October 20, the Rockets dumped Cathedral, 7-0. Chosen by Star sportswriters as "Play of the Week," a swing pass from Steve Berger to Mark Ford set up Ripple's only touchdown. Two weeks later Short led Ripple to a 35-13 win over Arlington.

Earl Dosey's reserves closed their season with a 6-2-2 record as quarterback Fritz Strack led in the scoring column.

A perfect record of ten victories enabled the Ripple freshmen to tie for the city's top spot. Lamont Stewart was top scorer with 13 touchdowns. Assisted by student teacher James Burrell, Coach Bill Sirka guided the freshmen team to its second undefeated season in four years.

Harriers ramble over Sacred Heart

by Fred Morris

Thumping Sacred Heart marked the highlight of a harrier season hindered by injuries and losses. Bob Blackburn and Chris Smith paced the team which was severely handicapped by the loss of Joe Hatfield and Doug Le-Masters. The squad finished with a 2-4 dual meet record.

On the second day of school, Carmel toppled the harriers, 22-32. The Rockets next traveled to North Central where Manual and North Central bested Ripple in a tri-meet.

The thinclads dropped their next two contests. A strong Southport team downed Ripple, 15-40, by gaining the first five positions, and Wood squeezed by the Rockets, 25-31.

The cross country squad gained its first victory with a 21-39 win over Chatard. Following this triumph Cathedral nipped the Rockets by a score of 26-29.

The highpoint of the season came as the harriers romped over Sacred Heart, 20-42. Ripple swept four of the top five positions and recorded the best times of the season. Blackburn posted his best time at 10:36, followed by Chris Smith at 10:56, Kevin Parnell at 11:05, Fred Morris at 11:06, and Bill Neale at 11:07 for the two mile run.

Next Ripple journeyed to the Howe Invitational where they placed seventh and avenged earlier losses by finishing ahead of Wood and Carmel. In this meet Ripple gained revenge from Cathedral by placing ahead of the Irish team.

The reserves sported a winning season with a 4-2 record, while the freshmen team finished at 3-1. Mike Stanfill led the frosh in every race, placing first in several meets. Stanfill's time of 8:26 for a mile and a half was good enough for a sixth place finish in the Frosh City.

Young grapplers compile 3-11 slate

by Ken Terfler

Predominately composed of underclassmen, Coach Milton Hiatt's wrestling team tallied an understandable 3-11 record during the 1965-66 rebuilding season.

The wrestlers dumped Wood in their first match before dropping meets to Howe and Manual.

Fighting inexperience, the Ripple wrestlers made a creditable showing at the City Wrestling Meet at Arlington by finishing ninth.

Following three defeats, the Rockets outpointed Scecina 20-18. Against Northwest the grapplers fell 37-11 as John Lieberman and Steve Sterrett paced the squad.

The Rockets finished the season by splitting their last four meets, two and two.

In the Sectionals at Ripple,

Sterrett captured third place at 165, while both Steve Fickert and Lieberman took fourth places at 180 and 122, respectively.

Phil Richardson, the leading scorer, accumulated 43 points and one pin. Sterrett totaled 33 points while Lieberman picked up three pins and Steve Chivington got 29 points.

complete schedule with 8-13 record

The '65-'66 version of the Broad Ripple basketball team struggled to a creditable 8-13 season record as 16 of the 21 contests the varsity squad played were on the road.

The season opened with the Rockets dropping an 86-68 decision to a tough Lawrence team. Still on the road, the Ripple squad posted a win and loss against Ben Davis, 57-55, and Decatur Central, 77-62.

After handily defeating Carmel, 54-47, and Chatard, 60-49, the Rockets finally came home. Despite 27 points by John Schroder and 22 by Jon Constable, an inspired Crawfordsville team downed the Rockets 86-78.

Ripple then crushed a defenseless Seccina team with Constable tying the school scoring record of 33 points to lead the Ripple squad to an 84-66 victory.

Back on the road, Ripple posted wins over Manual and Richmond before entering a slump, losing eight of nine games.

The City Tourney came as a break in the losing streak with Ripple defeating Arlington in a rematch. However, Rocket hopes for a City Crown were crushed by Shortridge.

With State Tourney time drawing near, the team fired up to manhandle a strong Greencastle team, 96-75. The victory showed the Rockets in perfect form with Schroder scoring 26 and Dave Atkinson pumping in 25.

In team effort the Ripple team averaged 66.8 points while their opponents averaged 69.5.

The Sirka-led reserve team posted a 9-12 record.

The 1965 season started slowly as the Rockets dropped three of their first four games. Seccina handed the diamondmen an opening game loss, 7-3.

The Rockets then routed Zionsville by a score of 15-0. Two six-run innings, coupled with one-

The Rockets dropped two more games before starting a four game winning streak. Ripple's squad ended the '65 season by splitting their last four games.

Ron Short led Ripple in hitting with a batting average of .390. In the pitching department, Rick Sander finished at 5-3 and Kent Shookman at 2-3.

Coach William Sirka's reserves completed their season with a mediocre 1-8-1 record, while the freshmen were 0-1.

Golf team brings home

by Rick Tucker

Coach John Perry's linksters rolled over all city competition to bring home their second consecutive City Crown. Posting a 17-5 record, the best slate in four years, Ripple placed second in the State Tourney, as Rick Lee captured the medalist's title by firing a one-under-par 69.

Following an early defeat by Carmel, the Ripple golfers won ten straight matches by overwhelming margins.

The Ripple linksters brought a 10-2 slate into the City Tourney, and at this point Rick Lee had the best round in the city, a 70 at Coffin.

On April 26 at the Riverside Golf Course, the Rocket golfers stroked their way to a second consecutive City Golf Championship. Ripple's four man total of 150 was just enough to edge out runner-up Northwest.

The Ripple golfers then proceeded to win 7 of 10 matches to finish the regular season.

After placing second in the Sectionals, the Rockets advanced to the State. Lee fired a 34 and a 35 over the difficult nine-hole layout at Coffin to put himself in first place among 104 individual entries. The Rockets finished three shots off the first place mark.

One of the season's highlights came when Sam Taylor shot a hole-in-one at Coffin.

Six lettermen including two of last year's team starters, will return to the 1966 team.

Ripple's 'big three' lead

by Paul Mannweiler

The Ripple tennis team captured its third straight City Crown with the aid of Don Berns, Dave Schumacher, and Don Cleveland. The "big three" in Rocket tennis led the team to a sterling 52-6 slate, three City Crowns, and one second in four years of varsity play.

Ripple stopped all city competition to post a 12-0 city record and finish at 16-1.

In the City, Schumacher copped the top spot in the number one division as he defeated Tim Greist of Shortridge. Berns and John Delaney won the third and fourth positions respectively.

In doubles play, Schumacher and Berns went two and a half hours to defeat Shortridge's doubles team of Greist and Bob Rice in the number one division. Cleveland and Delaney combined their skills for the other doubles victory over Wood.

Highlighting the Rockets' regular season schedule was a 6-1 victory over arch-rival Shortridge. The Blue Devils defeated Ripple in 1963 and 1964 accounting for the Rockets only losses of the two seasons.

Offsetting the victory over Shortridge was a 5-2 loss to Peru. The Rockets, who broke Peru's 75 game winning streak in 1964, hoped to repeat their performance, but Peru was too hot to handle. Schumacher lost his only match of the year. Teammate Berns dropped his second match of the season to Peru's Jim Weaver.

Tracksters tally 2-3 meet record,

by Dave Schwartz

Broad Ripple tracksters finished the 1965 season with a 2-3 dual meet record. The Rockets, coached by Mr. George Mingle, ended a mediocre season with Mike Perry and Ken Castor qualifying for Regional Track Meet.

Ripple began the season with two losses against Carmel and Howe. Ken Castor and Mike Perry took blue ribbons in the low hurdles and high hurdles, respectively, at the Carmel meet and Steve Pressler won the 880-yard dash in the Howe meet.

The Rockets won their next meet against Cathedral. Perry and Pressler took first's along with Larry Reuben and Castor.

In the Broad Ripple Invitational, the team finished sixth.

Next, Ripple dropped a meet to Manual. Again Castor proved to be the best Rocket low hurdler by picking up a first.

At the City Track Meet, the Rockets placed two men in individual events. The half-mile relay team placed fifth.

Before their last meet, the Rockets went to the Sectionals. Castor took fourth in the low hurdles while Perry placed third in the high jump. This allowed the two to go on to the Regional.

The varsity trackmen concluded their season with a victory over Chatard. The Mingle-men took blue ribbons in every event except the 100-yard dash.

The reserve track team, coached by Mr. Earl Dosey, had an undefeated season with victories over Carmel and Cathedral.

The frosh team, coached by Mr. Robert Ludlow, finished the season with a 3-0 record.

in making '66 'a year of change'

With the addition of softball and wrestling, Mr. Frank Baird supervised a changing year in the intramural athletic program.

In the fall, Bob Hatley's Cardinals captured the Intramural Championship by defeating the Mets 9-6 in the final game. Mark Hogan totaled the year's best batting average at .483.

Completing the fall session, Pete Greider won the Tennis Crown by defeating Walt Mangold in the final match, 6-1, 6-3.

During the winter session, Fred Wright's Mets dominated the Basketball League with an unblemished 12-0 record. The all junior Twins captained by Dan Satinsky took second place. Jim Fleming's Trolls won the year's Bowling Crown with a 15-7 season. Mr. Dave Enright supervised wrestling to complete the winter's sports.

*a moment to be one of many . . .
and yet alone . . . to have a friend . . . and try to really be one.*

For 1642 pupils, 86 faculty members, and 46 staff workers, Broad Ripple was more than just an institution of learning. Ripple was an integral part of their life and self-contained northside community. Ripplites were fun-loving yet rather serious people who prided themselves in the friendliness dominating the school as evidenced by the smiling faces and quick hellos greeting both old friends and unknown visitors to Ripple.

“Ripple is really a great place. Where else could you walk a block indoors and say hello to 50 people, teachers, students, and custodians alike, whom you could really call your friends?”

Administration plays guiding role

Below: Director of Guidance and Counseling Arnold Pahmeier explains correct college application procedure to seniors Karen Piotroski, Laura Agness, and Larry Stout.

Backed by an 85 member faculty boasting 64 masters degrees and a doctorate, the administration strived to provide each Ripplite with the finest education possible. Principal J. Fred Murphy, top administrator for 17 years, was assisted by Vice-Principals Harold Harding and Roger Riley.

Co-ordinating all counseling services, Guidance Director Arnold Pahmeier welcomed nearly 100 college representatives to Broad Ripple and organized College Night, at which Ripple hosted speakers from 75 colleges. Helping to ease the transition from grade to high school, the freshman counselors visited the various city grade schools and distributed the student life section of the 1965 Riparian Yearbook to future pupils to acquaint them with Broad Ripple.

Any personal or scholastic difficulties were referred to the deans or to Mrs. Martha Dunn, the school social worker.

Fred Murphy refers to Problems, Practices and Procedures in the Superior and Talented Student Project, a book which he co-authored on the gifted pupil program. Mr. Murphy was an Indiana representative to the Midwest Council for Exceptional Children.

"When we were underclassmen, we always heard how great it was to be a senior. But being a senior just meant we were a little older. And no matter how successful our high school years were, we were a bit regretful that we hadn't used our time to study and learn more. Although we can't believe how fast the past four years have gone, we're ready to leave the security of home and the familiarity of Broad Ripple to face the challenges of the world about us. But we know that we can't help but miss all the fun and good friends we've had at Broad Ripple."

"Being a junior meant gaining many new privileges like having an 'A' or 'B' added to our home room number and electing our first set of class officers. Best of all, we were 'Upperclassmen'! But it seemed as though there was always something to do and never enough time to do it. We went to the Junior Dance, bought class rings, and battled nightly with never ending homework assignments. Finally, we celebrated the coming of summer at the Junior-Senior Prom."

Sophomores adopt new activities

"With a year of experience behind us, we sophomores were fully prepared for another year at Broad Ripple. We finally kept our eyes off the clock during the last five minutes of class. We even made it through dissecting frogs. When freshmen asked us how hard geometry was, we nonchalantly recited some unheard of terms just to scare them. Really, being a sophomore meant we belonged a little more."

Above: Despite exhausting practice, football players Scott Jackson, John Phegley, and Dan Courtot retain the unity, spirit, and comradeship which come from working as a team.

Freshmen adapt to Ripple routine

"All last summer, we worried about the elevator passes and confusing halls we would have to face as freshmen at Broad Ripple. But the sincere helpfulness of our 'Big Brothers' and 'Big Sisters' made us feel like a real part of Ripple. Although our first few days were a bit frustrating, by the time we took our first finals, we were truly loyal Rippites. Enthusiastically, we worked on Fresh-Aid's projects and Homecoming floats, and we cheered our freshman football team through an undefeated season."

a moment to obtain the first job . . . purchase the first car . . . develop tastes and expand interests.

With over one-half of the population under 25 years of age, the American teenager has become big business. In addition to owning one-fifth of all the cars and clothes, teenagers spent $13 billion last year on luxuries alone. Realizing this vast market, merchants increasingly directed their advertising toward America's youth.

“Shopping has become the teenage pastime. But teenagers don’t buy just anything. They know quality and how much things should cost. And whatever teenagers like immediately becomes the thing to like.”

A moment to remember . . .

*a moment to rejoice . . . marvel
... laugh and cry at the same time . . . and go home for once before dark.*

WE ARE DONE! The last scraps of copy and pictures are on their way to the printer in Texas and the staff finally has a moment to relax. It seems like such a long time since we first started working on this 1966 Riparian; yet, we wonder where the days have gone.

We had little trouble finding a theme for this Riparian. After repeatedly reading the reports of psychiatrists, psychologists, and juvenile court judges telling what it is supposed to be like to be a teenager in the 1960's, we decided that it was time for a true set of experts to tell what it is really like to be young in 1966. As genuine teenagers, we felt qualified to do the job.

In order to give adequate coverage to our topic, we added 16 pages to the book and modified the basic format to include three columns per page and areas for quotes from Ripplites concerning the various phases of their youth. Because we wanted to catch the true activity of youth, our student photographers took most of the pictures for the book.

This book is a true staff product, and without the loyal support of each of the 42 staff members, it could never have been created. A special thank you is extended to Mr. Max Galloway for his everlasting patience and willingness to help with our photography. Likewise, we greatly appreciate the help of Mr. Dick Kennard, Newsfoto Publishing Company consultant, and Mr. Jack Bundy of the S. K. Smith Cover Company. But most of all, the undying support and understanding which we received from our advisers, Mrs. Ruth Marie Griggs and Miss Fran Lindley will always be remembered by every Riparianite.

"Yes, We'd do it all over again if we had the chance. It was fun."
